

The District Attorney announces the new CRIMINAL DOCKET FINDER

In accordance with the Victims' Bill of Rights Act of 2008: Marsy's Law, the Criminal Docket Finder was developed to provide victims with information on the defendant's appearance at public proceedings.

Instructions:

As a victim of a crime, you are entitled to know when the case will next be in court. You can find the next court date through the internet. You will have received a card containing the information necessary to use the Criminal Docket Finder. This information will include the Docket Number of the case, the court name, the police report number and the police agency name. Using this information, go to the Internet using "Internet Explorer" or some other browser. In the Address window, type acgov.org to go to the Alameda County Homepage.

From the home page, click on "Criminal Docket Finder". This will take you to the Criminal Docket Finder page as shown below.

Follow the instructions, using EITHER option one or option two, to access the case and the future court dates.

To learn more about your rights, go to the Victim's Rights on the District Attorney Website, alcoda.org, or contact your local District Attorney Office.
