District Attorney Nancy O’Malley and Robert Schmitt from Clear Channel Outdoor launched their annual billboard campaign in recognition of Human Trafficking Awareness Month. This year’s theme is “Support Survivors.” DA O’Malley and Robert Schmitt, Regional President of Northern California at Clear Channel Outdoor announced the campaign in a video press conference. For several years, the DA’s Office has partnered with Clear Channel Outdoor to educate and bring awareness of human trafficking to the Bay Area Community. The billboards were designed and created by DA O’Malley and her team.

“Through the billboard campaign we are able to educate and motivate the community to stop human trafficking,” says DA O’Malley. “As a community, we can come together and provide support for victims and uplift survivors of human trafficking.”

In addition to billboards, the District Attorney’s Office has created an awareness campaign featuring posters at bus shelters. Members of the community are invited to learn more at HEATWatch.org, where they can also click on “TAKE THE PLEDGE” and register their support. The community can also learn how they can support survivors and organizations who support them.
