

Language is no barrier

Alameda County is 4th most diverse county in the nation!
 More than 43% of the county speaks a language other than English at home.²

The most common languages spoken in homes in Alameda County are: English, Chinese, Spanish, Vietnamese, and Tagalog.

The ACFJC website is available in Spanish (es.acfjc.org) and Chinese (zh.acfjc.org).

The Victim-Witness section of the District Attorney's website is also available in Spanish (alameda.org/victim_witness/es) and Chinese (alameda.org/victim_witness/zh).

The DA's Office represents this incredibly diverse population of residents, and those who work for the DA's office reflect the community we serve.

Language is no barrier. To assist you, our staff can communicate in these languages: English, Spanish, Cantonese, Mandarin, Farsi, Vietnamese, German, French, Tagalog and Sign language. For all other languages, we utilize the county language line.

